 GeraMond

Dear Colleagues and Friends,

Sustainability is in the air. It is becoming a part of our daily routine, it influences the way we cook, dress and travel – and it is these three topics, which we at GeraNova Bruckmann explore in our books. The most up-to-date trends and ideas of how to let sustainability in our wardrobes, kitchens and lives are to find in the novelties of Spring 2020:

Bruckmann Verlag – known for its strong focus on travel and mountaineering – inspires readers to "small outdoor" adventures, that let us appreciate nature on our doorsteps and increase our environmental awareness.

Christian Verlag has worked out a 10-week program for a sustainable wardrobe with the message: dress mindfully! Besides, our passionate cookbook team shows how an old tradition and a modern trend of sustainability can be combined in one ultra trendy technique: we proudly present our fermentation bible to you!

Our Christophorus team got inspired by the wish for a more sustainable way of dressing, too: they developed a Capsule-Wardrobe sewing planner!

What's more, National Geographic analyses the meaning and reason of traveling in our new reader format book: Beyond Adventure!

GeraMond presents an impressive photo project about "Train stations all over world", our secret escapes from everyday lives and the gates to distant destinations.

Frederking & Thaler – as usual – is ready to fascinate our readers and partners with beautifully illustrated books.

My colleague Britta and I are excited to discuss all these wonderful books with you.

If you would like to take a closer look at them – please do not hesitate to contact us.

Kindest regards,

Sauces. The school of cooking

The perfect companion for meat, fish, poultry, vegetables and dessert

Susann Kreihe

Sauces are quite underrated in cooking. However they can both upgrade an "average" dish or completely destroy a perfect one. Sometimes whole meals are judged by the sauces, which is why even some of the most ambitious hobby cooks are afraid of making them.

This book teaches to make sauces to all kinds of dishes: to meat, fish, poultry, vegetables and desserts, because a meal just isn't complete without a sauce.

- The new and modern standard work on sauces
- A basic course in the "supreme discipline" of cooking
- At least 150 recipes with step-by-step photos

North German by Nature

Modern kitchen from the North of Germany

Benjamin Perry, Tommy Hetzel

Benjamin Perry is a chef and a strong supporter of the regional and seasonal cuisine. This is something he learned from his great grandmother: cooking shall be authentic, down to earth and home-connected.

Benjamin found a handwritten cookbook of his great grandmother and went on a journey to explore northern Germany and its best recipes. He met people who share his great grandmother's view on cooking: an apple farmer, a fisherman, a shepherd and many others. All of them share their stories and their recipes with the author .
